

Williams Executives to Speak at CERAWeek 2025

February 19, 2025

Williams will join global energy leaders at the world's preeminent energy conference, March 10-14 in Houston

TULSA, Okla.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Feb. 19, 2025-- Williams (NYSE: WMB) President and Chief Executive Officer Alan Armstrong and members of the Williams leadership team will join the world's energy industry leaders, experts, government officials and policymakers, as well as leaders from the technology, financial and industrial communities at the 43rd annual CERAWeek presented by S&P Global, to be held March 10-14 in Houston.

Mr. Armstrong will participate in a plenary session with other esteemed energy industry leaders to discuss Global Gas: New Business Models and Evolving Infrastructure on Wednesday, March 12 at 10:10 a.m. CDT. The session will focus on how energy security, the ongoing rise of U.S. LNG and the growth of data center demand are driving change in global natural gas markets.

Chad Zamarin, Executive Vice President of Corporate Strategic Development, is scheduled to speak in a plenary session, Infrastructure: Scaling Up or Bottled Up, on Tuesday, March 11 at 4:15 p.m. CDT. The session will discuss pathways to overcome regulatory, funding and technological constraints to expansion of infrastructure projects.

Jaclyn Presnal, Vice President of New Energy Ventures, will participate in a panel entitled Fuel Sources Competing to Meet Data Center Demand, scheduled for Monday, March 10 at 3:30 p.m. CDT. The session will evaluate the role of fossil fuels, renewables and nuclear in powering AI, digital technologies and data centers, as well as supply chain challenges and grid constraints.

Mark Gebbia, Vice President of Environmental, Regulatory & Permitting, will participate in a panel entitled Collaboration Spotlight: Real-World Impacts Driven by the University of Texas with EQT, Williams and Cheniere on Tuesday, March 11 at 3:30 p.m. CDT. It will explore how academia and industry have partnered to produce insights and tools to solve complex emissions challenges in the energy sector.

In addition to its participation at CERAWeek, Williams will be represented by Chad Zamarin at the South by Southwest Festival in Austin, Texas on Monday, March 10. Chad will join other leaders for a panel, "Next Gen Leadership for an Evolving World," at the Fast Company Grill, to discuss how innovative leadership fuels productivity, boosts growth and creates positive impact across organizations at every level.

About Williams

Williams (NYSE: WMB) is a trusted energy industry leader committed to safely, reliably, and responsibly meeting growing energy demand. We use our 33,000-mile pipeline infrastructure to move a third of the nation's natural gas to where it's needed most, supplying the energy used to heat our homes, cook our food and generate low-carbon electricity. For over a century, we've been driven by a passion for doing things the right way. Today, our team of problem solvers is leading the charge into the clean energy future – by powering the global economy while delivering immediate emissions reductions within our natural gas network and investing in new energy technologies.
